

PASSPORT OF THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

• 8D02314-Linguistics

The aim of the educational program	To prepare professional linguists who will be able to own scientific, professional and communicative competences, and to satisfy all the high quality requirements that are set for a candidate in scientific organizations, to have skills to organise and conduct linguistic research work
Field of professional activity	-research activities in the field of linguistics, linguistic technologies in the humanities;- experimental studies:- conducting experimental research in specialized disciplines in various scientific institutions;- research and development work;- teaching in the field of higher education in linguistics and philology.

LEARNING OUTCOMES (RO)

RO 1 – to analyse and summarise techniques and principles of discovering the main linguistic methods and methodology of the research, and implement them to the research work;

RO 2 – to analyse issues of new tendency in linguistics, the developing history of pragmatic tendency, basis of medially linguistics and linguo-axiology;

RO 3 – to study, analyse critically, compare and contrast the basis of scientific-theoretical research of Mass media's communicative language, and also theoretical basis of researching of communicative situation of the press, tele radio, internet and social networking sites;

RO 4 – to identify the basis of semiotic analysing the text, advertisements, visual and oral subjects and etc;

RO 5 – to analyse various techniques of the text analysis, such as structural, immanent, intertextual, semiological, semiotic;

RO 6 – to differentiate linguistic systematic theoretical and practical knowledge in terms of the experimental research work formation of goals and objectives and professional problem solution cases

RO7 – to implement research results in the work by analysing and comparing the materials regarding law and linguistic-juridical contents.

RO 8 – to analyse linguistics and its bond with the other branches of science; RO 9 - to be responsible for the research results and to make decisions about the research.